INDEPENDENCE DAY. Ministerial Orations Before the King

Kaumakapili Church was yesterday the scene of Independence Day exercises of a highly interesting nature. The hour appointed in the official advertisement was twelve o'clock, but His Excellency Antone Rosa, Attorneyand Minister of Foreign Affairs, and L. Aholo, Minister of the Interior, were also present as the orators of the day. A guard of honor was formed by the Household Guards and the King's church, conducted devotional exercises at the opening and closing of proceedings. The large auditorium in the basement was filled to even standing room, and only the mistake about the hour prevented hundreds from clustering at the doors and windows.

portant and independent states of the present day with the humble and unin present day with the humble and unin lelands. The two principals were pretty badly battered before it was held even as late as 1843.

Mr. Gibson's oration in English, which followed, was very similar in scope and sentiment to that of his colleague. He elequently told the story of the formal recognition of indpendence by the United States, England and France; then contrasted the condition of Hawaii in 1836 with the present state of affairs, morally, commercially and politically. On the day on which Chief David Laamea Kamanakapuu Mahinulani Naloiaehuokalani Lumilani Kalakaua was born was signed a convention negotiated by the Hawaiian Government, not with the representatives of Great Powers as the treaties of to-day, but with the captain of a ship of war. In 1836 a newspaper writer discussing the commerce of the realm spoke mainly of possibilities, the only exports mentioned being hides, goatskins, salt and kukui nut oil; while to-day the annual value of exports was nine million dellars, or about a hundred dollars for every inhabitant, the estimated population being no greater now than then. At that day little care was taken of distressed people, whereas now one-tenth of the revenue went to the promotion of the public health. Some of the finest steamships affoat carried the foreign mails under the Hawaiian flag, and the Kingdom had shown her products at great international expositions in London, Boston, New Orleans and Louisville. He suggested that the Jubilee year might be signalized by a grand Polynesian Exhibition. Following is the Premier's peroration:-"Let me say in conclusion that the Hawaiian people, the Hawaiian nation have ample cause for rejoicing on the occasion of these jubilee festivities.

From Maul and Hawaii, per stnr Kiaaa, Sunday, Now 28—W H Hone, Mrs B H Scholtz, Paul Neumann, J K Kaulia, Mrs H T Walker and 2 children, Roy E S Timoteo, J Maghire, Geo Ross, Kikon, Rev W H Barnes, A Barber, Ah Sing, and about 107 deck. occasion of these jubilee festivities. Their native chief, their hereditary, as well as chosen ruler after the completion of fifty years of an active and a nicent rule, still lives and reigns and under the guidance of Divine Providence, that has led and the rule and reigns and library Winkelman, Backus, from San Francisco. dence, that has led and shaped his existence so far, they may hope that their ruler and father may continue with them to guide and to bless yet another fifty years, until the completion of a second or double jubilee. Perhaps this expression of hope is an extravagant one, but nevertheless in such a

ever. And why-is he not a father beloved by his children, more than a raler revered by his subjects. He moves about fre ly and unattended among his people. He visits and inspects every nook and corner of his insular dominions, and it may be said he is personally known to, and he knows ersonally every native man, woman and child in his island realm (applause.) He holds in his hand the sources of their welfare, and of all other people who have come to live under his sway. And does he not shape all his action for the public good? He has, -inspired by a wise, liberal and generous states-manship left his Pacific home and gone forth around the world to call upon and enlist the sympathies of the rulers of the great Powers of the earth in behalf of his Kingdom. And King Ka-lakaua, the father of the Hawaiian people, was received by rulers everywhere, in great as well as small states, with all the courtesy and consideration accorded to the sovereign of an enlightened country. For our King has inspired a great hope abroad, as we I as at home: that his island realm was to advance, grow, and be glorified with the good of a numerous people; that it had its seat on the broud ocean to further great interests of international commerce and welfare; and that he, King Kalakaua, was the appointed man-the man of the Pacific to lead onward to a higher destiny, to become a successful, beneficent, and respected power, his Pelynesian realm (prolonged applause.)"

After the conclusion of His Excel-ency's address, the pastor pronounced the benediction, when the royal party passed out, followed by the audience

Second of the Series.

The second of the trio of billiard matches between Morris and McCleery came off at the Hotel on Saturday night. It was for 600 points up, balk line game, and lasted about four hours. those who assembled then were just in In 66 innings Morris won the victory, time for the conclusion. The King McCleery having reached 508 points, was present, accompanied by Princess At the 11th inning McCleery was 45 Liliuokalani, Likelike and Kaiulani, to Morris's 38, after which the difference went the other way. The 22nd made the score Morris 132, McCleery General; Hons. A. S. Cleghorn and J. 194; 33rd, 269 and 129; 44th, 353 and 360, McCleery putting himself ahead by a run of 52; 55th, Morris 512, Mc-Excellencies W. M. Gibson, Premier Excellencies W. M. Gibson, Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, and highest run of the match, but only made one in his final attempt, when his opponent had only six to go. Morris made an average of nine and McCleery Own. Rev. J. Waiamau, pastor of the church, conducted devotional exercises the closing match of this series for 1,000 points even, straight billiards, will take place at the Commercial billiard rooms.

A drunken Spaniard tried to stop a horse and carriage on Punchbowl near Queen street yesterday afternoon. Mr. Aholo delivered an oration in Another foreigner lately master of an Hawaiian, sketching the progress of the inter-island steamer, who was in a Kingdom during the fifty years of His similar condition, struck the Spaniard, Steel Engravings, Pastel Crayon Paint-Majesty's life, and comparing the imall over, and the police being telephoned for from an adjaceut house the pair were speedily entered at the Station for affray. It appears that all four were together in a drunken debauch.
